

RE: Wishing You a Blessed Good Friday During These Difficult Times

4/10/20

To Our Residents, Family Members, and Visitors,

Today is Good Friday, and marks roughly one month since the state's response to the COVID-19 outbreak began. Since then, we've watched the outbreak bring our country together, closer to our faith, and to our own communities. Angels Senior Living is grateful that our residents, families, and staff have worked together to keep our communities free from COVID-19 in the last month.

Last Wednesday, the governor issued a stay-at-home order for the entire state. That order went into effect the next day and lasts until April 30th. During that time, visitation to our communities will remain suspended. We'll keep a close eye on orders from the governor along with guidance from the CDC and Department of Health to determine when we can open our communities up again to our families, vendors, and visitors. We appreciate you understanding.

Our staff are hard at work keeping your loved ones safe. Each of them has agreed to socially distance themselves, and we've provided them with protective equipment like masks and gloves. Each team member also receives infection control and universal precautions training, and we check in each day to make sure our communities have the supplies they need.

During this difficult time, it's more important than ever that our residents feel connected to the world and to one another. Please continue to reach out to your loved ones through FaceTime, Skype, Facebook, or by calling our communities. I want you to perform "window visits" with mom and dad if your community can accommodate, drop off care packages, and stay in touch with them as we all get through this together.

You can find updates about COVID-19 and our Angels communities any time on our website, AngelsSeniorLiving.com. Please keep our staff and your loved ones in your prayers. Thank you and have a blessed Good Friday.

Warmly,

Robert S. Bennett
